DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 2/23/2006 has been entered.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 29 is objected to because of the following informalities: "said penetration" should be changed to --said cavity-- for consistency. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-5, 10-14 and 17-21, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Noll et al. [US 6,598,988].

Regarding claim 1, Noll et al. discloses a display profile having a substrate [4], a penetration [6] extending through the substrate [4] with a side wall, an entrance opening [at light source 7] and an exiting opening [at top lens 9], a light emitting device [7] mounted to the surface of the substrate [4], and a source of electrical conductor, inheritance, connecting to the substrate [4, a PCB] to power the light emitting device [7] (figure 6). However, Noll et al. does not clearly show in the figure 6 (Fig. 6) that the electrical conductor attached to the surface of the substrate.

In another embodiment of Noll et al., at Fig. 4, Noll et al. discloses the electrical conductor [12, 13] of the light emitting device [7] being attached to the surface of the substrate [4] (figure4).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the electrical conductor connection of the embodiment of Fig. 6 with the electrical conductor connection to the surface as taught by Noll et al.' another embodiment for purpose of providing an advantageous way of manufacturing.

Regarding claims 2 and 3, Noll et al. discloses the substrate [4] being varying/substantially uniform cross-section (figure 6).

Regarding claim 4, Noll et al. discloses a PCB [4] with wires [12, 13] (figure 4).

Regarding claim 5, Noll et al. discloses a user interface panel [3, light guiding] (figure 1).

Regarding claims 10-12, Noll et al. discloses a light guide [10] (figure 3).

Regarding claims 13 and 14, Noll et al. discloses the PCB [4] (figure 6).

Regarding claim 17-20, Noll et al. discloses LED [7] (abstract).

Regarding claim 21, Noll et al. discloses a single penetration (figure 6).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claims 6-9, 15, 16, 22-28, 56 and 57 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Claim 6, the side wall is covered with a substantially opaque material.

Claims 7-9 are dependent on claim 6.

Claim 15, the apparatus comprises a light diffuser.

Claim 16 is dependent on claim 15.

Claims 22, 56 and 57, the display comprises a plurality of penetrations.

Claim 23, the apparatus has an electronic component on the substrate.

Claims 24-28 are dependent on claim 23.

7. Claims 29-55, 58 and 59 are allowed.

Claim 29, an integrated low profile display apparatus comprises, in combination, a substrate having a cavity defined by a substantially opaque side wall, an entrance opening and a closed end, and a light emitting device mounted to a first surface of the substrate proximately the entrance opening and a corresponding electrical conductor of the light emitting device attached to the first surface of the substrate.

Claims 30-55, 58 and 59 are dependent on claim 29.

The limitations discussed above are neither disclosed nor suggested by the prior art of record.
